

Framework for Negotiations

The Framework establishes the principles and parameters for UN-led, inclusive Yemeni negotiations to end the war and restart a political transition process. The initial phase of the UN-led negotiations will result in a Transitional Agreement that specifies a set of interim political and security arrangements that allow for an end to the fighting inside of Yemen, an end to security threats to neighbouring countries, and the restoration of state institutions. The Transitional Agreement will also include a timeline and mechanisms for addressing unresolved political issues during a transition period, including but not limited to: the Southern Issue, a new constitution, transitional justice and national reconciliation, and conducting national and local level elections.

The negotiations shall be based on the GCC initiative and its Implementation Mechanism; the outcomes of the National Dialogue Conference; all relevant Security Council resolutions, including UNSCR 2216 (2015); and all previous efforts to end the war and reach an inclusive political settlement, including UN-led talks in Kuwait. Transitional security and political arrangements shall be negotiated in parallel as a package and as part of the Transitional Agreement. Their implementation will be carried out in an integrated sequence of specified steps as specified in the agreement, with accompanying monitoring and guarantees. The Transitional Agreement and its interim security and political arrangements shall be negotiated in coordination with all relevant Yemeni stakeholders in accordance with an inclusive consultation mechanism.

The negotiations of the Transitional Agreement will be conducted in accordance with this Framework for Negotiations.
